

Dear Friends,

I saw the attached picture and thought of the "current world situation" as people call it and the old Biblical parable of the dividing of the "sheep and the goats" - the "sheep", the saved, the good, on one side and the "goats", the damned, the bad, on the other side. Isn't it "funny" how all the different peoples consider themselves to be the "sheep" and the others to be the "goats".

Of course to think in those terms is very bad Buddhism - so here is something to cause thought and perhaps some reason to "Look up!" as Rev. Master Jiyu used to say. And to further make the point:

When all the brokenhearted people living in this world agree

There will be an answer - Let it be.

For though they may be parted

There is still a chance that they will see.

There will come an answer - Let it be.
